Why are we proposing parking changes in the West Seattle Junction?

SDOT received a request to evaluate residential streets near the West Seattle Junction for a new Restricted Parking Zone (RPZ). We've completed numerous parking and access studies in the West Seattle Junction and Triangle areas and sought feedback about area on-street parking. We've used study results and your feedback to develop the proposed changes outlined in this mailer. Visit our website for more details www.seattle.gov/transportation/WSParking.

What would an RPZ do?

An RPZ would prevent all-day parking by commuters on blocks with RPZ signs. RPZ signs would not be installed next to businesses and employees would not be eligible to purchase permits.

Proposed new RPZ

- RPZ signs would be installed on the orange-lined blocks. These signs would limit vehicles without RPZ permits to 2-hour parking, 7 AM – 6 PM, Monday – Saturday.
- All residents living within the orange-shaded area would be eligible to purchase RPZ permits. Vehicles displaying an RPZ permit would be exempt from the 2-hour time limit on RPZ-signed blocks.

Permits are currently $65 per vehicle for a two-year cycle. One hang-tag guest permit is available per household. A $10 low-income permit is available.

Other parking changes

In addition to the new potential RPZ, SDOT plans other changes on commercial streets in the neighborhood:

- New time limits fronting commercial businesses
- Extension of unpaid time limits on California Ave SW from ending at 6 PM to ending at 8 PM
- ♿ Install designated disabled spaces and a load zone to improve neighborhood access

What's next?

We are collecting feedback on the proposed new RPZ through March 15, 2019 by online comment form, email, phone, and at the public hearing. All comment methods are treated equally. SDOT plans to send out a final decision on whether or not a new RPZ will be installed by June 2019.
